

Dinesh Khanna

An introduction of an incredible Indian

Dinesh worked as a Calculator Salesman, Garments Quality Checker and a Busboy in an Upper Eastside Bar in New York in his early years. This rather confused career path was due to his teenage belief that if he followed in his Photographer Father's footsteps he would be yet another victim of the Indian caste system. This rebellion further led him to a 12 year long career as an Advertising Executive. He finally 'burn-out' at the ripe old age of 33 years and which left him with a driving desire to become a Professional Photographer.

So in 1990 he finally succumbed to what can probably be blamed on genetic coding – the desire to make images – both as a means of making a living and as a form of creative expression. The last 17 years have seen him involved in creating images for Advertising, Editorial and Corporate clients, specifically in the area of Food, Still-life, People and Interiors.

Also a body of Personal Work which has been exhibited in Delhi, Mumbai, Kolkata, Bangalore, London, Edinburgh, San Francisco and New York. His latest Exhibition was "Tirtha – a Spiritual Journey" Delhi. Besides this he has – "Bazaar" and "Living result of over a decade the traditional markets India. 17 years into the not just a profession and of understanding and around him.

Dinesh, now 50 years near Delhi, with wife, Advertising Executive and for the last 8 years Dancer. They have 2 12 years old and shares dance. And Mahi, who at Artist but in her wisdom only a 'half-art'.

A photograph of a traditional Indian building facade. The wall is painted a vibrant blue, with some areas showing peeling paint and a lighter, textured surface. A window with a wooden frame and vertical bars is visible. To the left, a large, ornate stone pillar stands. In the foreground, a simple wooden chair is positioned. The overall scene is rich in color and texture, capturing the essence of Indian architecture.
